Last Saturday was a great day! My cousin Layla came to visit.

First, we went shopping. I bought some new trainers, and Layla bought some jeans and a T-shirt. There were a lot of people in town and the shops were very busy.

Then we met my sister for lunch. My sister's got a Saturday job as a shop assistant in a bookshop. She really likes it! We met in a café and we had a sandwich and a drink.

After that, Layla and I walked to the park. It was a lovely, sunny day and we had an ice cream. Then we took a bus home.

We had dinner at 8 o'clock, then we watched a film and chatted. I went to bed at 11 o'clock. It was a really good day!

Last Saturday Tom had a football match. After the match he met his friends, and they went to a café. They all ate hamburgers and drank milkshakes. Tom took a lot of photos of his friends. It was a fun day!

Astronauts also do experiments on their spacewalks, to learn more about space. This astronaut is running. It is important for astronauts to stay fit and healthy.

The astronauts exercise for two hours every day.

Eating and drinking in space isn't easy. Astronauts have to drink their coffee like this to stop it from floating away! Space food can be difficult to eat!

Astronauts work hard on the International Space Station, but they also have lots of fun. After a busy day of work the astronauts go to bed. They usually sleep for eight hours. This astronaut is sleeping in a special bag that can't float away.

Now, a question. How do you think astronauts in space wash? They don't have a shower like we do on Earth. They use soap but they don't use water.

See you next time. Bye!
