The first paper was written by the author in a few days and contained the following ten chapters -

The first chapter is about the nature of the human mind and the way in which it is affected by the senses. The second chapter is about the nature of the senses and the way in which they are affected by the objects of sense. The third chapter is about the nature of the intellect and the way in which it is affected by the objects of intellect.

The fourth chapter is about the nature of the will and the way in which it is affected by the objects of will. The fifth chapter is about the nature of the emotions and the way in which they are affected by the objects of emotion. The sixth chapter is about the nature of the habits and the way in which they are affected by the objects of habit. The seventh chapter is about the nature of the virtues and the way in which they are affected by the objects of virtue. The eighth chapter is about the nature of the vices and the way in which they are affected by the objects of vice. The ninth chapter is about the nature of the moral law and the way in which it is affected by the objects of the moral law.

The tenth chapter is about the nature of the moral law and the way in which it is affected by the objects of the moral law.
